Getting Your Travel Insurance Right.

Book your travel insurance as soon as you've booked your trip - this is common sense right?

Unfortunately, arranging travel insurance is something a lot of people do just a few days before they leave. Worse still, some don't get it done before they leave the country. Did you know that once you've left NZ, it's too late to get yourself covered?

A good travel insurance policy will reimburse your flights and accommodation if you can't travel due to family illness or an unexpected death, or if you are unwell. Alternatively, it will cover the costs to re-schedule. In addition, it will cover you for lost items or luggage and most importantly your medical costs if you get sick or have an accident while you are overseas. There have recently been some articles in the media about costly insurance snags.

Travel insurance isn't expensive - especially in the grand scheme of things if something does go wrong when you are overseas. The cost for travel insurance depends on your age and your destination, for example a policy covering your while you are in Australia will cost a lot less than a policy if you are travelling to America.

Please note that insurers do not offer cover to countries or regions where the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade recommends non-essential travel should not be made. These countries are noted as high or extreme risk by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade on their Safe Travel website www.safetravel.govt.nz.
